2025 Impact

The UI Extension 4-H program in Clark County grew immensely in 2025. Day camp increased by 300% and projects displayed at the fair increased by nearly 350%. A variety of activities were offered for Clark County youth, including sewing, cooking, knitting, geology and botany. The livestock program included market steers, swine, sheep and goats. Goats were a new addition in 2025. A successful horse show was held, resulting in three Clark County participants competing at the Eastern Idaho State Fair. School enrichment projects such as sewing and rocketry were a new addition in the fall.

On the Horizon

In 2026 UI Extension, Clark County will offer food preservation classes to both 4-H members and adults. The annual Tasting Tea event will return in 2026 after an 11-year hiatus. The livestock program will expand beyond only market animals and will include breeding and pet projects. Shooting sports will also be added as an option for 4-H youth.
