

3+3 Law Program Course Substitution Form

The University of Idaho 3+3 Law Program allows undergraduate students, with the permission of their major advisor and department chair, to count up to 30 credits of the first year law curriculum toward the completion of the undergraduate degree. This form is required for any student participating in the 3+3 Law Program to verify which undergraduate degree requirements will be fulfilled during the student's first year of law school.

- This form must be submitted at the time you are admitted into the 3+3 Law Program.
- List each undergraduate major course or elective course that will be fulfilled upon the completion of the first-year law courses listed below.
- Once all of the courses have been evaluated and your advisor, department chair (if required by department), undergraduate college dean (or designee), and the College of Law Director of Admissions have approved the plan, bring the form to the Office of the Registrar.
